The 7-Day Keto Air Fryer Reset

Under 20g net carbs/day. Every dinner in 30 minutes or less. Air fryer-forward.
No weird ingredients.

A week that actually works — designed to beat keto week-2 burnout.

How this plan works

Keto isn't complicated — but the second week is where most people quit, because they're tired of the same four foods. This plan rotates 21 meals across 7 days, capped at 20g net carbs per day, with an air fryer as the main cooking tool. Every dinner is 30 minutes door-to-plate.

You'll see macros on every recipe. The rough target is 70% fat / 25% protein / 5% net carb, but stay flexible — what actually matters is staying under your daily net-carb cap and eating enough protein to preserve muscle.

The four rules of this reset week

- 1. Net carbs under 20g / day. Track them. Apps like Carb Manager make it trivial.
- 2. Electrolytes matter more than you think. 3-5g sodium, 3-4g potassium, 300-400mg magnesium / day.
- 3. Hydration. Half your body weight in ounces of water, minimum. Keto is a diuretic.
- 4. Don't overthink swaps. Don't like salmon? Swap any fish. Don't like asparagus? Swap any non-starchy green.

What to expect

- Days 1-3: the "keto flu" window — fatigue, headache, light brain fog. Electrolytes fix 95% of it.
- Days 4-7: energy levels out, cravings shrink, and you start waking up with steadier mornings.
- Don't weigh yourself daily. Week 1 is mostly water weight and it'll make you neurotic. Weigh Day 0 and Day 8.

Air fryer basics

Preheat 3 minutes unless otherwise noted. It matters for crispness.

Don't crowd the basket. Two batches beat one crammed batch every time.

Shake or flip halfway. Always. Set a second timer.

Pat proteins dry before seasoning — wet surfaces steam, dry surfaces crisp.
